Description of Change

The connector plugs will no longer be included in the standard product package. Customers requiring connector plugs can order them separately using part number A370327.

Reasons for change

Field experience has shown that the majority of customers, particularly high-volume customers, do not use the supplied connector plugs and typically dispose of them. Removing the connectors from the standard package reduces unnecessary material consumption, minimizes waste, and supports the company's sustainability objectives. In addition, this change contributes to cost optimization while allowing customers to order connectors only when required.

Key characteristics of change

1. Connector plugs are no longer supplied as part of the standard product delivery.
2. Connector plugs remain available as separate accessories under part number A370327.
3. No changes to the product design, functionality, performance, specifications, or certifications.
4. Product installation and operation remain unchanged when the optional connector plug is used.
